

Spices Bulk & Packaged for Private Label

There is a reason ancient civilizations prized spices above all else and countries have been invaded for this special treasure. Spices come from the earth naturally and have many benefits to our culture, cuisine and health. More and more scientific research is emerging that backs up the health benefits of spices, benefits preached by wise civilizations for thousands of years.

Spices are an extremely healthy way to make food flavorful! This is because pure spices do not contain so many of the common enemies to a healthy lifestyle. Spices contain no fat or sugar and an insignificant amount of calories. It is not only about what spices don't have, but what they do have. Many spices contain antioxidants, a powerful disease fighter. Spices are believed to help fight diseases such as cancer, diabetes, arthritis and Alzheimer's. Beyond serious diseases, spices help fight less serious ailments such as the common cold and an upset stomach.

We are proud to offer a full range of pure & natural spices, ranging from everyday spices like Black Pepper and Cinnamon to harder to find items such as Long Pepper. We can blend and package spices and spices mixed with other natural dried products, like tea to your specifications.

With quality our goal you can be rest assured our products are not only fresh, but packed with flavor.

EAG has always taken a stand when it comes to the protection and sustainability of our natural world and the delicate systems which balance all life. The complex and venerable world we live in, produces all of the products we share with you, we appreciate and respect the world we live in. We try our very best to be good stewards on environmental issues we also ensure fair treatment and compensation for the people from farmers to our production both domestically and overseas. Through common consensus we hope to encourage an ecological practice within businesses and our communities, where more is given than is taken. We follow this simple rule in the way we carry on our day to day business practice.
